UNION, STEEL COMPANIES RESUME TALKS

"Trigger Happy" Red Pilots Hit By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today blamed "trigger happy" Russian pilots for the shooting down of an American Navy patrol plane off Alaska last week.

"So far, we doubt that represents a considered policy on the part of the Soviet Union," Dulles said. "Certainly, we hope not."

Dulles' statement, in effect precluding the significance of the plane incident, came at a news conference. He and President Eisenhower had talked over the affair during a plane trip Monday night from Maine to Washington.

IN REPLY TO questions, the secretary said the government has not decided yet whether to stick to its demand that Russia pay the full cost of the plane and provide reparations for seven crewmen who were wounded or injured in the crash landing.

Russia has expressed regret over the incident and has offered to pay half the cost of damages. The Navy estimates the plane's value at more than $1,500,000.

In talking to reporters, Dulles stressed the plane crash occurred at least 25 miles from Soviet territory, and well beyond the 12-mile limit Russia claims as its air space.

"At least the Soviet Union has made an expression of regret," Dulles said in a statement. He said he believes this is the first time it has publicly expressed regret "over the conduct of its armed forces."

THE SECRETARY said that while he deplores the incident, he nevertheless hopes the Geneva "summit" conference next month "can begin on the assumption that all four of the participants genuinely desire a secure peace."

Dulles said Russian failure to discuss German unification at the Big Four conference would throw doubt on Soviet sincerity toward easing international tensions.

Dulles said the division of Germany is a world problem which contains the seeds of greater evil. Any realistic effort to promote peace must include work on German unification, he said.

Commission's Report Takes Issue With Highway Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commission on Intergovernmental Relations took issue today with President Eisenhower's highway financing program and called on his administration to assume full command of civil defense.

The 25-member commission, created by Congress two years ago to recommend boundary lines for overlapping taxes and encroaching governmental authority, filed with the President a 311-page document proposing:

1. WITHDRAWAL of the federal government from some fields of taxation — leaving them to the states and cities — as rapidly as tax reduction becomes possible. It named no specific taxes.

2. Federal "payments in lieu of taxes" to cities and states, in compensation for real estate stricken from their tax rolls because of federal ownership.

3. Increased federal appropriations for a stepped-up, state-administered highway construction program to be financed on a "pay-as-you-build" basis, not by borrowing.

4. Action by Congress to transfer responsibility for civil defense to Washington from the states and cities — which the commission said are ill-equipped financially and otherwise to carry the burden.

5. Continuation with some important changes and curtailments, of federal grants-in-aid, under which more than $2,000,000,000 annually is furnished to states and local governments. The federal grant, the report said, "has become a fully matured device of cooperative government."

6. THE COMMISSION headed by Meyer Kestnbaum of Chicago, president of the Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing concern, emphasized this view:

"A fundamental objective of our system of government should be to keep centralization to a minimum."

It called on the government to exercise "forbearance" in encroaching on the jurisdiction of states, counties and cities, but emphasized that the states must modernize their constitutions and tax systems and reorganize their administrative machinery to serve the public better.

It was stated that formal charges against him will be filed in juvenile court here, unless he is returned to Clark County where he is on probation for a law violation.

The car he had stolen was found abandoned in Springfield and Sheriff Orland Hays was notified.

Meanderings By Wash Fayette

New Holland's homeless parrot was still on the list of the missing Tuesday, but there was a hint that one searcher may have a clue to his whereabouts.

The parrot has had the town in an uproar since his disappearance Saturday, when he was last seen perched in a tree eating cherries.

New Holland's postmaster, Cecil W. Briggs, spotted the bird in one of the cherry trees on the Briggs' lawn about 5:30 A. M. Saturday. He called Mrs. Briggs and together they watched the parrot gorge on cherries. But the two of them were the last to see the bird.

A note of possible tragedy was introduced Monday, when Irvin Patrick, game protector here, suggested hunters may have mistaken the parrot for a game bird and shot him down.

But Briggs refuses to give the bird up for lost. He said Tuesday that he intended to go looking for the bird again that evening. On the face of it, there was nothing new about this, since most of the population of New Holland has been seeking the big green, red and yellow parrot since his disappearance Saturday.

But it could be that Briggs has a lead. He refused to elaborate, but hinted, "I just might have an idea where he is. I'm going to go look at." At that point he broke off and said no more.

He promised, however, to keep the Record-Herald informed of further developments in the search.

Dayton Holdup Solved Quickly

TROY (AP)—Troy police said today they arrested an armed man 45 minutes after a Dayton holdup which netted a robber only $28.

Police said Vincent C. Hutchinson, 22, of New York City, was taken into custody for investigation of robbery and auto theft. They said the man admitted holdup of a luncheon room in Dayton at 1:15 a. m. today, and that he was driving a car stolen in the East.

Tornadoes And Thunderstorms Leave Five Dead

25 Persons Injured By Tornado In Nebraska Monday

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes or violent thunderstorms that struck in parts of the mid-continent, South and East left five persons dead, more than a score injured and heavy property damage today.

A man and a woman were killed late Monday when a twister smashed 25 homes at the Hilleridge housing development northeast of Scottsbluff, Neb. Some 25 persons received hospital treatment.

Two persons were killed by lightning in storms that swept parts of Texas and New Mexico Monday night. Property damage was expected to run between 100,000 and $500,000.

Daniel Williamson, 13, Little League baseball player, was killed by lightning near Camden, N. J., Monday while he and 12 other boys stood under a tree during a storm. Two other youths suffered shock from the bolt.

Hail and rain caused severe crop damage in Greenwood Township in east central Pennsylvania. Four inches of rain fell in one hour.

KILLED IN the Nebraska tornado were Mrs. V. J. Daniels, 50, and Jim Karubos, 16. Mrs. Daniels' husband and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Karubos, parents of the dead boy, were critically injured.

The twister was one of a rash of tornadoes that hop-scotched across parts of Nebraska and Wyoming Sunday night and Monday. Several persons were injured in Wyoming.

The threat of a flood hung over the stricken Nebraska area. The North Platte River, swollen by heavy rains, forced evacuations from some areas.

Winds reached 80 miles an hour in several sections of Carlsbad, N. M. Telephone and power lines were ripped down and heavy rains flooded streets.

Skies were generally clear from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic and west of the Continental Divide.

$94,108 Is Due In Taxes Here

Only Two Days Left To Escape Penalty

With the June 30 deadline for paying real estate taxes in Fayette County only two days away, there is still a total of $94,108 unpaid.

This was revealed by Treasurer Charles A. Fabb Tuesday morning following payments amounting to $9,970 on Monday.

The treasurer said he hoped for, and expected, payment of most of the taxes still due, but he added, no jam at the counter in the treasurer's office in the Court House was anticipated. He explained that more and more taxpayers are sending their checks by mail rather than standing in line to pay in person.

Bank President Uses Deer Rifle

MINNEAPOLIS (P)—Bank President Allen Burrill kept a deer rifle in his office at the Citizens State Bank in suburban St. Louis Park—just in case.

Monday came his chance to use it, but his aim wasn't good enough to prevent an armed bandit from feasting with $10,000.

He grabbed the rifle when he was informed that a teller, Mrs. Rayma Kohout, was being held up.

Before firing, he shouted a warning to 10 employees and eight customers. Then he let fly with four shots. All hit the walls and the bandit escaped unscathed in a stolen car.

The car was later found abandoned two miles from the bank.

Taxes Blamed for Drop in Smoking

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (P)—The sharp drop in cigarette consumption in the last two years is due to "ever increasing taxes" rather than fear of a link between smoking and cancer, representatives of the tobacco industry were told here Monday.

F. M. Parkinson, of Richmond, Va., director of the Tobacco Council, said the council had "ample statistical data" to support such a claim. He called for a halt in the imposition of additional taxes by states or municipalities.

Federal taxes on cigarettes average about 8 cents per pack. Taxes imposed by states and municipalities vary widely.

Presbyterians Given Reports

Six From County Back From Meeting

Five women representatives of the Presbyterian Church in Fayette County today are back home from the annual Synodical meetings last week at the College of Wooster with new ideas and inspiration and enthusiasm which they are planning to pass along to fellow Presbyterians here in the months ahead.

From the First Presbyterian Church went Harold J. Braden, wife of the pastor, Mrs. Charles S. Hite, Mrs. C. L. Musser and Mrs. Ormond Dewey and from the Presbyterian Church in Bloomingburg went Mrs. Lloyd Mohrly.

Rev. Harold J. Braden, pastor of the church here, attended the Presbyterian, which is the annual statewide meeting of the Presbyterian Church, as the commissioner, or delegate, from the Columbus Synod.

Less than a month ago, Rev. Braden had been one of the official delegates to the national Presbyterian meeting in Los Angeles. Supt. W. A. Smith of the city schools, the official lay delegate of the synod, accompanied him to Los Angeles.

Those from here at the Presbyterian and Synodical meetings at the College of Wooster heard many reports as well as inspirational and religious addresses during the four full days of sessions devoted to official church business.

They also had an opportunity to exchange ideas with Presbyterians from churches, large and small, all over Ohio.

The official registration for the Synod and Synodical meetings showed an attendance of 847.

AMONG THE reports was one that showed an increase of 7,032 in enrollment of Sunday Church Schools in Ohio Presbyterian churches.

A recommendation that churches and committees be encouraged to attend the Wooster Leadership Training School, July 11 to 22, was made.

Another recommendation was made that each Presbytery committee on Christian education cooperate with the Synodical committee on the Synod Leadership Education school in 1957.

Another report pointed out that this year, 497 out of 584 churches of the Ohio Synod used 85 percent

Presbyterian literature in their programs.

President Howard F. Lowery of the College of Wooster, a Presbyterian institution of higher learning, told the gathering the school now has an enrollment of 1,050 and pointed to the need for operating and endowment funds.

President Lowery also discussed the place of the church college in its general programs and its functions as a Christian center for youth training.

In another report gifts of women's organizations to three organizations were listed: $123,382.48 to the Board of National Missions; $126,732.34 to the Board of Foreign Missions and $40,645.94 to the Board of Christian Education.

Snowballs With A Real Kick

NEW ORLEANS (P)—Business snowballing at the snowball stand Mrs. Paul Spurlock's children set up outside her house.

Several male customers were wading into the icy confection and several more were clamoring for service.

Mrs. Spurlock went to investigate. She found the children had disdained the conventional fruit syrups and were spiking the snowballs with two bottles of her best liqueurs.

The snowball business melted away after she rescued the remaining half bottle.

Washington's Complete Department Store

Can You Imagine This Amount Of Storage Space

What would be your reaction if you suddenly came upon a city at least 30 times as large as Washington C. H., comprised entirely of warehouses? Or a city approximately as large as all of Union Township in which nothing but warehouses were standing?

According to estimates made from facts submitted regarding our federal government's vast owned and leased storage space, at least the above mentioned amount of land would be necessary to handle such storage, if assembled in one place.

It is now costing the taxpayers of the country more than 3½ billions of dollars each year to store federal property and documents. The Hoover Commission, after an intensive study of this situation estimates that at least 253 million dollars annually could be whittled off this amount without any decrease in services.

Think what that amount would mean as compared to the total real estate and personal tax total value of all of Washington C. H. The saving would approximate nearly 15 times as much each year.

However, the vast saving in federal storage costs is only one in at least 250 places that huge savings could be effected, if Congress and the administration leaders of our country would definitely make a sure-fire drive to this end.

Of course, some toes would be tramped upon and threats of reprisals, political and otherwise, would fill the air. It would take more nerve and courage than any majority of congressmen or leaders of national administrations have shown in the last 25 years. Easy spending of money means votes, they seem to think.

The saving in federal storage is only one of 239 places that vast savings could be effected by congressional action or merely by a departmental ruling.

In addition to savings resulting from more efficiency, the latest commission recommendation says the government might pick up as much as 1¼ billion dollars in extra revenue through disposal of properties that might be declared surplus under efficient management.

Perhaps it is the staggering size of the possible savings which creates the apathy in Washington toward the present crop of recommendations. Some proposals in the first series was carried out, either by the Truman or the Eisenhower administrations. The present series seems to be meeting with resistance, and even criticism, by politicians in both parties.

The difference lies in that the new Hoover Commission was empowered by Congress to study policy changes. The first commission merely sought more efficient ways to carry out policies established by Congress.

It is difficult to see why economy in government should be sacrificed merely because some governmental policies should be altered.

The views of the folks back home some time may be the determining factor in the importance which congressmen attach to the Hoover Commission recommendations.

Hawks Worse Than A-Bombs

NEW YORK (P)—Once upon a time there were two little mice, and one was named Oswald—and he whispered to the other, "Harriet."

When he called her name she heard it like the tinkling summons of a three-syllabled bell. "Harriet," he called, and she ran to the wire restraint of her laboratory cage. Across a small space she could see Oswald, running up and down his wire cage and sticking his eager pink muzzle through at her.

She thought modestly—but still excited—that in all her born days she had never seen a mouse with quite such gay whiskers. Her heart rose and fell as Oswald's whiskers did. She felt she must brush them or die.

All of a sudden Oswald and Harriet were plumped into a darkened case. They felt movement, heard the dull plod of feet in sand—and—

A miracle—light dawned—they saw each other again left alone in a strange house on a strange floor. They scurried to a corner as mice do and looked around.

Why this was heaven—food scattered around and no traps to worry about. The two little mice ran toward each other.

"Harriet!" cried Oswald, and each syllable was a bell tone. "I'll bet you can't gallop like a pony."

"Oh, yes, I can," she answered, blushing. And with no other word she held out her tiny paw, and he took her paw in his paw, and around and around they pranced like miniature ponies.

They swirled into the living room, and saw four gangling people—a father, mother and two children—sitting wide-eyed and silent on a sofa.

The two mice ran from them with quaking hearts and hid under a chair.

"Are they human?" asked Harriet, "they don't move."

"They can't be human," replied Oswald, "because there are four of them—and not one is complaining."

Actually, the four family figures were clothing store dummies. They and the mice had been put there for a purpose, but neither dummies nor mice knew why.

"Oh, Harriet," sighed her bell-toned lover, "Let us dance like figures again."

Above them the mushroom cloud sprawled higher in lazy power.

As it blew away, the human engineers moved in to see what had happened to the test house. They had Geiger counters to test the shattered dummies in the home, but none that could plumb the sky or the fate of Oswald and Harriet.

Moral: Beware of hawks.

Problems Of Standardizing Money By George Sokolsky

The problem of money and its value has long plagued the human race. There is no universal monetary standard. It used to be, in what appears to us now the very distant past, that gold was acknowledged as the base to which most currencies were related. But the world went off gold and never got right again.

The British were the first among the great marketing nations to open a free market for gold. The operation is still small and is in a few hands led by Samuel Montagu & Co., Ltd., an old and highly respected banking house in London. It is too early to say that the British are ready to restore the Gold Standard, but they are prepared to establish some system of convertibility, that is, for a free and more stabilized conversion of one currency to another.

Most of the continental European countries are opposed to convertibility because they presently manipulate their currencies to give them an advantage in world markets. Their general contention is that if they lose that advantage, they will not be able to compete with American goods which are produced by mass production methods and therefore more cheaply in huge quantities.

Continental European countries are not ready for mass production because they lack home market to sustain this method. They cannot dispose of immense quantities, say of automobiles. Most of those countries have to follow a standard of living for vast mass production enterprises. They cannot sell to their own

House Extends Higher Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (P)—The House has approved President Eisenhower's request that Congress extend for another year the "temporary" $6,000,000,000 increase in the national debt limit voted last year.

The House sent to the Senate by a 226-56 vote the measure which would keep the legal debt ceiling at $281,000,000 until July 1, 1956.

Obviously the reason why the United States and Soviet Russia are economically so effective is that they have a broad base. Domestically, they have established, each according to its own economic system, a vast area for the consumption of goods and the supply of raw materials without tariffs or other similar impediments. Most European countries are not in a position to do that. Even Great Britain has to import from abroad most of its raw materials and many of the continental European countries are lacking in basic supplies with

List of Antidotes For Many Poisons

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Summer means bugs, and plenty of them; bugs mean insecticides and poisonous powders in just about every home; and these mean potential danger to your children.

When using insecticides don't spray them widely about a room. Instead, direct them toward the spots where they are needed. It's a good idea, too, to keep the children out of a room until you have finished spraying.

On High Shelf

The greatest danger to youngsters, however, are the insecticides which are just left lying about. It's most important, of course, that such poisons be kept on a high shelf or in a locked cabinet out of the reach of inquisitive little hands.

But, no matter how much I caution you, some of your children are going to swallow some of these insecticides or powders accidentally this summer. If your youngster is one of them, you'll want to know what to do.

First, call your doctor. He'll give you the proper advice.

An Antidote

If you can't reach him, you'll have to give your youngster an antidote. If you don't know what he has swallowed, give him milk mixed with the white of an egg, milk and flour, or baking soda and water.

You can determine what the poison contains. You can usually learn this from the label of the container. The following antidotes should be used for the following poisons:

Arsenic—Give a mixture of two tablespoons of powdered burnt toast, one spoon of milk of magnesia and four spoons of strong tea.

DDT—Give two tablespoons of epsom salt in two glasses of water. Then give lots of strong tea or hot coffee.

Phosphorus—Four ounces of hydrogen peroxide. One tablespoon of sodium bicarbonate in a quart of warm water. Then give four ounces of mineral oil. Do not give animal or vegetable oil. Keep all oils and fats out of the diet for

However, if they were united into one large economic unit, say with a population of 160,000,000, and embracing the whole of western Europe, they would be able to improve their situation considerably. Europe has lived too long on the American hand-out and has become accustomed to it. Furthermore, most Europeans have come to regard the American hand-out as a method of dumping and therefore accept manipulated currency as a protective system. As we dump on them, they would like to dump on us. And the best way to do that is to keep prices down by manipulated currency and a low wage scale that gives the appearance of being adequate.

These are a few of the reasons for western European opposition to convertibility of currency.

It has long been hoped that an economic union might be established in western Europe with a population as large as that of the United States. The European coal and steel community was the first step in that direction under the leadership of Jean Monnet, it has managed to do better than was expected for it. If the same principles of operation could be established for other commodities and embracing more countries, the way would be clear for an economic United States of Europe.

Obviously the reason why the United States and Soviet Russia are economically so effective is that they have a broad base. Domestically, they have established, each according to its own economic system, a vast area for the consumption of goods and the supply of raw materials without tariffs or other similar impediments. Most European countries are not in a position to do that. Even Great Britain has to import from abroad most of its raw materials and many of the continental European countries are lacking in basic supplies with

13 Persons Die Daily In July Traffic Mishaps

Keep Car In Good Condition Advice Of Chief Long

On an average, 13 persons a day lose their lives by accident during the month of July . . . nearly five each day are victims of traffic accidents.

Chief of Police Vaiden Long said that one fourth of the traffic deaths result from accidents in urban areas. "While city casualties have been lower than in 1954, the recent Memorial Day weekend warns us that we cannot expect to hold these gains unless motorists recognize hazards better than they have in the past," he said.

Continuing Chief Long said: "Folks spend weeks planning a vacation trip, arranging for sleeping accommodations, sights seeing trips and their travel route . . . then they completely overlook their car. It should be thoroughly inspected by a competent mechanic, and put in good condition, even when the trip is merely "gypsying" around Ohio.

"Car trouble is no fun on a vacation. A slight delay tempts the driver to make up for time lost. One-third of the drivers involved in rural traffic accidents were violating a speed law at the time of the accident; one-fifth in urban accidents were "speeding".

"Remember that there are many more cars on the road this summer. Miles traveled will be 10 percent higher than a year ago. You may not be able to go as fast or as far in a day as you did last year."

"East of the Mississippi, it is not wise to expect to cover more than 300 miles a day. Each hour spent sightseeing cuts 35 miles from that total. Plan your trip so you can reach the day's destination without exceeding the speed limits.

"Enforcement officers in all sections are campaigning on the theme "Slow Down and Live". Great attention is being focused on speed. Watch your speed, or you may be delayed by a visit to a magistrate in a strange community.

"But there's another reason to watch your speed - the damage from a collision increases greatly at high speed . . . at 60 the impact is four times the blow inflicted at 30 . . . two cars colliding at the speed of 60 mph produce the damage of 120 miles hitting a brick wall. "Slow Down and Live" is a fact as well as a slogan. Fatalities at 60 are 3 times as frequent as at 40.

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) - Guessing why the Russians have changed from growl to grin has become a kind of international parlor game which anyone can play, with or without facts. A little wishful thinking helps.

Latest guesser is Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines. At the United Nations' anniversary in San Francisco last week, during a television interview, he said: The Kremlin leaders are having trouble among themselves and want to change their attitude. They've been pleasant ever since.

Nothing more could be accomplished by threats or toughness. They couldn't lose by a twist in tactics. Indeed, they might accomplish more with sounds of peace than they ever achieved with belligerency.

Molotov spelled out precisely what the Russians want: the American air bases dismantled, the Western Alliance broken up and the Allies to disarm. Since the West is realistic, the Russian desire bears a price tag.

The Allies, knowing that once their alliance was broken up and they had disarmed, they might never again be a match for Russia, would need some iron guarantees that Russia would disarm to the point where it couldn't be a menace.

Molotov talked of Russian willingness to disarm and prohibit the use of atomic weapons. This sounds like a tremendous concession by Russia. The test of its earnestness lies ahead.

The Russians and the West have been dickered for years about disarmament but the Russians haven't yet been willing to agree to the Allies' idea of a disarmament system which would let each side check thoroughly on the other to be sure.

$500,000 Damage In Six Hour Fire

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) - Fire which raged almost out of control for six hours Monday night left this central Oklahoma City with the heart of its business district a blackened ruin.

Damages were estimated by insurance men at up to half a million dollars. Two three-story buildings were leveled. The walls of an adjoining department store re-

Delta Kappa Gamma Enjoys Annual Picnic Preceding Regular Meeting

The spacious suburban home of Mrs. Thomas Parrett was an ideal setting for the farewell-for-the-summer picnic of the Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honorary education society, on Monday evening. The velvety lawn with its petunia bordered walks was a picturesque carpet for the many small tables loaded with delicious food.

Assisting Mrs. Parrett as hosts were Mrs. Greta Jensen, Mrs. Florence Lust, Miss Oapl Davis, and Miss Ruth Stecher. Miss Golda Baughn was the leader in the recitation of the Collet of the silver anniversary of the national founders and the guests lingered in fraternal enjoyment until the stars shown overhead.

Following the banquet Mrs. Parrett invited the guests into the handsome remodeled colonial home with its treasured memories and wealth of valued souvenirs. Miss Gladys Nelson, the president, presided at a routine business meeting. First on the agenda it was voted to materially increase the value of the local scholarship which annually is awarded to a deserving Fayette County student. It was decided to promote two money-raising projects and also an auction of vacation souvenirs in September.

Many letters of appreciation were read from snut-ins and others who

June 18 Wedding Is Solemnized In Greenfield

Sprays of white gladioli against a background of jade foliage, satin bows and tall altar candles decorated the chancel of First Methodist Church, in Greenfield, for the wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Johnson and Michael Williams. Rev. Roy C. Vandegriff read the double ring service at two o'clock Saturday afternoon June 18.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, Route 3, Greenfield. Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, of Buena Vista.

A half hour of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. Mrs. P. Case, organist, played, "Angels," "Sabande," and "To a Wild Rose," "Chime Prelude," "Prayer," "Clair de Lune," "Starlight," and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Jack Kellough, vocalist, sang "At Dawning," "Because," and "A Wedding Benediction."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned with a basque bodice tapering to a point in the front. The scalloped sweetheart neckline was enhanced by a yoke of illusion and a lace Peter Pan collar. The long close fitting sleeves tapered over the hands and the very full waltz length skirt was scalloped at the hemline.

Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was caught to a bandeau of pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations centered with a purple throated white orchid. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Nelson reminded the members that they should elect a delegate to the district meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma to be held in Detroit during the month of August.

Club Members Meet At Archer Home

The June meeting of the Mysterious 15 sewing club was held at the home of Mrs. Mable Archer who had as her assisting hostess, Mrs. John Warner.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Penwell, during which Mrs. Clara Carr reported on the illness of Mrs. Chester McKinley, and a gift was sent to Mrs. Charles Jones, another member who is ill.

At the close of the meeting a contest was conducted and was won by Miss Mildred Moss.

Later a salad course was served by the hostesses and a social hour was enjoyed.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Minnie Fackler.

Gradale Picnic Honors Pledges At Braun Home

Mrs. Perse Harlow, Sr. and son Perse, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Follis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnott and children, Kirk and Kathy Lou have returned from Marion, Indiana, where they spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Edwards. On Sunday they were guests at the wedding of the Edwards' son Ronald and Miss Carolyn Sue Haskell in the Methodist Church in Sweetser, Indiana, when the Arnott's son, Kirk, was the ring bearer.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, Route 3, Greenfield. Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, of Buena Vista.

A half hour of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. Mrs. P. Case, organist, played, "Angels," "Sabande," and "To a Wild Rose," "Chime Prelude," "Prayer," "Clair de Lune," "Starlight," and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Jack Kellough, vocalist, sang "At Dawning," "Because," and "A Wedding Benediction."

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Minnie Fackler.

The three attendants wore white lace picture hats, short white nylon mitts and necklaces given them by the bride.

Janet Johnson, sister of the bride, and Charlotte Ingels, the two little flower girls presented a pretty picture in their dainty pink nylon dresses and straw picture hats. They carried baskets of roses.

Howard Smith, of New Martinsburg, served as best man. James Everhart and Robert Wise seated the guests.

Mrs. Johnson chose a navy blue faille dress for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Williams wore a navy blue sheer ensemble. Both mothers had white accessories and white carnation corsages.

The bridal motif was carried out for the reception held in Fellowship Hall in the church immediately following the ceremony. The lace covered bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake garlanded with greenery. Hostesses were Miss Arlene Malott, Miss Barbara Mann, Miss Carolyn Smith, Miss Meleida Young and Mrs. Robert Wise.

For going away the bride changed to a beige summer suit with a small beige hat and avocado accessories. Pinned at the shoulder was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Williams are members of the 1955 graduating class of McClain High School. She is employed at Sears Order Office and he is associated with the Jones Implement Store at Good Hope. They will reside on Route 3, near Greenfield.

Flashes Win, 8-7 From Top Team

Jets Handed Upset
With Late Rally

Coming from behind twice and finishing with a game-winning 4-run rally in the last frame, the Record-Herald Flashes chalked up their second victory of the season in Monday evening's Little League game at Wilson Field.

What's more, the third place Flashes won that second game from the front running Coca-Cola Jets—and, although anything can, and does, happen in this high-gear boys baseball program, the victory of the Flashes over the Jets was a mild upset.

If there was any one thing that was outstanding in this game it was the pitching of Wilt for the Jets and Massie for the Flashes. Wilt fanned 8 of the Flashes and gave up only 4 bases on balls while Massie set down 13 of the Jets on strikes and issued only four walks.

Each team got 8 hits, but with the help of a little loose fielding and the occasional bases on balls, they cashed in on them almost for full value.

The one single offensive feature of the game was Campbell's home run with Juillerat aboard for the Jets in the fourth.

THE JETS tallied first with a run in the second and then added three in the top of the fourth to take a 4-0 lead.

After three scoreless frames, the Flashes got to going in their half of the fourth with 2 runs and tied the score at 4-4 with 2 more tallies in the fifth.

The Jets turned on the steam in the sixth and last inning and pulled out to a 3-run lead that looked like it would be enough to keep them in the No. 1 spot.

But, the Flashes bounced right back with a rally of their own that was good for 4 runs and the game.

Despite the victory, the Flashes with 2 wins and 2 losses remain in third place and despite their defeat, the Jets remain on top with 4 wins and 2 losses.

Jackson Now Wants Valdes

NEW YORK (AP)—"Now I want Valdes (Cuban Nino Valdes). That's my last trouble—my last headache," said Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson after he had evaded his old score Monday night with Jimmie Slade who ended his hot streak a year ago.

A technical knockout by Valdes last July is the most damaging blot on the Hurricane's record, 22-31 for 26 fights.

Jackson overwhelmed Slade with his non-stop attack. Judge Leo Birnbaum 6-3-1 and referee Barney Felix 5-4-1 all for the Hurricane.

"I don't intend to retire until I meet somebody who is better than I am," she said.

Last Wednesday she had an operation to correct a ruptured spinal disc.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Hoover Group Makes Report

WASHINGTON (P)—The Hoover Commission recommends changing the law which requires policy-making government officials to divest themselves of corporation stock holdings.

This was one of a set of recommendations in a report Sunday setting forth ideas for improvements in Defense Department administration and business methods—improvements which the commission said could result in annual savings of as much as $2,000,000,000.

The group headed by ex-President Herbert Hoover also considered some of the department's other problems.

Columbus Grove Fire Claims Two

OTTAWA (P)—A fire in a residence at Columbus Grove in Putnam County Sunday caused the death of two children and sent three others to the hospital.

Authorities said Gloria Jean Amstutz, 1, suffocated when their home stut, 11, and her brother, Bruce, caught fire. Three other children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Amstutz, who were working away from home at the time, were taken to Lima Memorial Hospital.

Paul, 10, and Thomas Amstutz, 9, suffered from smoke, but their conditions were not serious. Donald Amstutz, 12, suffered burns and his condition was described as critical.

Probe Planned

LOS ANGELES (P)—Another probe into alleged Communist activity in Hollywood and environs opens Monday before a three-man subcommittee of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Bible Give-away Becomes Puzzle

Two Girls and Boy First Recognized

Several children as well as their parents, teachers and area ministers are puzzling the case of the missing Bibles.

Under the coaching of the Rural Bible Crusade, three students in 6th, 7th and 8th grades respectively have "satisfactorily completed the memorization of 500 Bible verses."

According to the news releases received by the Record-Herald they are entitled to a week at the Crusade's summer camp, as well as a free Bible and "ten other awards."

But Mrs. Norma Frock of the Waterloo Road, said her son Brian "didn't even receive a Bible." She received no answer when she wrote to the given Wheaton, Illinois, box number for information.

Rev. Harold J. Braden of the First Presbyterian Church, Washington C. H., said he received several calls from parents and a few teachers in outlying areas, asking for information. He asked other ministers, but found that "they're totally in the dark" also.

The good in the idea of inducing children to read the Bible is undisputed. But Rev. Braden comments that "until such time as they divulge their true motive or objective, I haven't anything constructive to say."

Ruby Mae Ater, 6th grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ater, 1320 Pearl Street, Washington C. H., and an 8th grader, Carol Detty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Detty of Jeffersonville, also "satisfactorily completed" the memorization according to the "news release" from Wheaton.

The news releases give P. O. Box 6, Springfield, O., as the address of the regional office.

Service Station Here Changes Proprietors

Harold Ross and Junior Satterfield today had taken over the Marathon Service Station at the corner of Court and North streets.

They bought the franchise, lease and stock and equipment from Ernest Stanforth who has operated the station for the last five years.

Ross grew up in Jeffersonville and has been employed in the casting room of the Record-Herald plant for the last three years.

Satterfield comes from Mt. Sterling, where he was associated with his uncle in the automobile business.

With them will be another experienced service station attendant, Leo T. (Dutch) Paetz.

The new proprietors said they would continue to carry a line of tires, batteries and other accessories. A major part of the service also will be the grease rack.

DT&L Repairing Crossing Here

Work of relaying the DT&L Railroad crossing on West Court Street was started Monday. It will be completed within the next few days.

In the meantime, drivers are cautioned to pass over the intersection slowly to prevent damage to vehicle springs, etc.

Heavier rails are being laid over the crossing and the surface of the street will be made to correspond.

The crossing has been in need of attention for sometime.

Math Class No Help In Figuring

TOLEDO (P)—Stephen Vass, in math class Monday, couldn't figure how to get his finger from a hole in his desk.

The whole summer seventh grade, and the whole Fulton school put their minds to the task.

They tried oil, soap and grease; nothing gave him release.

Teacher called the police and gave an A to the cop who shipped desk, boy and tears to a sheet metal shop where they freed him with shears.

Residents of Jeffersonville and other towns under 2,000 population in Ohio, are much relieved over legislative action which exempts towns of 2,000 from mandatory installation of sewage disposal systems which would virtually have bankrupted many towns.

The legislature in its dying hours adopted a measure, with an amendment, which makes it possible for residents of towns under 2,000 to install septic tanks instead of sewer systems and disposal plants.

There were 2,072,333 bathtubs sold in the United States in 1954.

Two Arrests Are Made Here Monday

Two arrests were made by the police here Monday, one for being drunk and the other, Mary Newland, for cursing and striking Susie Newland, who filed the charge.

It was explained at police headquarters Tuesday that Kenneth Evans, who was fined $25 and cost for disorderly conduct, lives at Bloomingburg, and is not Kenneth Evans who resides at 1126 Willard Street.

Those who will receive special recognition from Washington C. H. this year and the number of years they have served with D&L are: Hershel F. Baker, 324 Gibbs Avenue, gas serviceman, 25 years, and Lawrence Robnett, 431 Rose Avenue, pipeman, 30 years.

D&L To Honor Many Employees

One out of every seven employees of The Dayton Power & Light Co. have been with the company 25 years or more.

Tuesday evening a special banquet will honor 30 employees who will receive their 25-year pins. It will be held at Dayton.

This number swells the total of active employees who have been awarded the pin to 338 out of a total of 2,373 D&L employees.

Certificates will be given to employees who have completed more than 25 years of service. A special recognition will be given to four employees who have spent 50 years with the company. Never before have so many employees reached the half-century mark during any one year. Only six other persons ever reached 50 years of service in the company's history.

UNION, STEEL COMPANIES RESUME TALKS

"Trigger Happy" Red Pilots Hit By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles today blamed "trigger happy" Russian pilots for the shooting down of an American Navy patrol plane off Alaska last week.

"So far, we doubt that represents a considered policy on the part of the Soviet Union," Dulles said. "Certainly, we hope not."

Dulles' statement, in effect deprecating the significance of the plane incident, came at a news conference. He and President Eisenhower had talked over the affair during a plane trip Monday night from Maine to Washington.

IN REPLY TO questions, the secretary said the government has not decided yet whether to stick to its demand that Russia pay the full cost of the plane and provide reparations for seven crewmen who were wounded or injured in the crash landing.

Russia has expressed regret over the incident and has offered to pay half the cost of damages. The Navy estimates the plane's value at more than $1,500,000.

In talking to reporters, Dulles stressed the plane crash occurred at least 25 miles from Soviet territory, and well beyond the 12-mile limit Russia claims as its air space.

"At least the Soviet Union has made an expression of regret," Dulles said in a statement. He said he believes this is the first

THE SECRETARY said that while he deplores the incident, he nevertheless hopes the Geneva "summit" conference next month "can begin on the assumption that all four of the participants genuinely desire a secure peace."

Two persons were killed by lightning in storms that swept parts of Texas and New Mexico Monday night. Property damage was expected to run between 100,000 and $500,000.

Daniel Williamson, 13, Little League baseball player, was killed by lightning near Camden, N. J., Monday while he and 12 other boys stood under a tree during a storm. Two other youths suffered shock from the bolt.

Hail and rain caused severe crop damage in Greenwood Township in east central Pennsylvania. Four inches of rain fell in one hour.

KILLED IN the Nebraska tornado were Mrs. V. J. Daniels, 50, and Jim Karubos, 16. Mrs. Daniels' husband and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Karubos, parents of the dead boy, were critically injured.

The twister was one of a rash of tornadoes that hop-scotched across parts of Nebraska and Wyoming Sunday night and Monday. Several persons were injured in Wyoming.

The threat of a flood hung over the stricken Nebraska area. The North Platte River, swollen by heavy rains, forced evacuations from some areas.

Winds reached 80 miles an hour in several sections of Carlisle, N. M. Telephone and power lines were ripped down and heavy rains flooded streets.

Skies were generally clear from the Mississippi Valley eastward to the Atlantic and west of the Continental Divide.

Employment security — Congress should extend unemployment compensation coverage to "all employers of one or more persons."

1. WITHDRAWAL of the federal government from some fields of taxation — leaving them to the states and cities—as rapidly as tax reduction becomes possible. It named no specific taxes.

2. Increased federal appropriations for a stepped-up, state-administered highway construction program to be financed on a "pay-as-you-build" basis, not by borrowing.

3. Increased federal appropriations for a stepped-up, state-administered highway construction program to be financed on a "pay-as-you-build" basis, not by borrowing.

4. Action by Congress to transfer responsibility for civil defense to Washington from the states and cities—which the commission said are ill-equipped financially and otherwise to carry the burden.

5. Continuance with some important changes and curtailments, of federal grants in aid, under which more than $2,000,000,000 annually is furnished to states and local governments. The federal grant, the report said, "has become a fully matured device of cooperative government."

6. The COMMISSION headed by Meyer Kestnbaum of Chicago, president of the Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing concern, emphasized this view:

"A fundamental objective of the system of government should be to keep centralization to a minimum."

It called on the government to exercise "forbearance" in encroaching on the jurisdiction of states, counties and cities, but emphasized that the states must modernize their constitutions and tax systems and reorganize their administrative machinery to serve the public better.

The report also urged that "no road," and declared: "It would be a basic mistake and wasteful duplication for the national government to embark on a new program of actually building, maintaining and operating any large segment of the highway network."

RECOMMENDATIONS on major federal grant programs included, in summary:

Education — Responsibility for public education should "continue to rest squarely upon the states."

Agriculture — Soil conservation technical aid to farmers should be turned over to state administration wherever the state submits a satisfactory plan and provides funds for the District of Columbia.

WHEN THE books were opened on May 1 for this collection period, a total of $262,969 was listed for collection. Since then, $168,860 has been paid.

On the books for collection this year in two separate collection periods was a total of $907,652—half of that was due for payment at the January collection and the other half at the collection period just now approaching the end. That meant $453,826 was due at the first collection period and the other $453,826 due at the second.

However, $664,663 was paid the first period. Thus, about $200,000 was paid in advance leaving only $262,969, instead of $453,826, to be collected during the present May and June collection period.

$94,108 Is Due In Taxes Here

Only Two Days Left To Escape Penalty

With the June 30 deadline for paying real estate taxes in Fayette county only two days away, there is still a total of $94,108 unpaid.

This was revealed by Treasurer Charles L. Fabb Tuesday morning following payments amounting to $9,970 on Monday.

The treasurer said he hoped for, and expected, payment of most of the taxes still due, but, he added, no jam at the counter in the treasurer's office in the Court House was anticipated. He explained that more and more taxpayers here are sending their checks in by mail rather than standing in line to pay in person.

How many individual taxpayers are represented by $94,108 due is now known and Treasurer Fabb said it would be an "almost impossible task" to count them while taxes are being paid.

The treasurer gave the same old friendly tip about failure to pay taxes—that a 10 percent penalty goes on automatically as soon as the taxes become delinquent. He commented that "the county does not want to collect a penalty . . . it is something that can't be avoided if property owners neglect to pay on time."

Dayton Holdup Solved Quickly

TROY (AP)—Troy police said today they arrested an armed man 45 minutes after a Dayton holdup which netted a robber only $28.

Police said Vincent C. Hutchinson, 22, of New York City, was taken into custody for investigation of robbery and auto theft.

They said the man admitted holding up a lunchroom in Dayton at 1:15 a.m. today, and that he was driving a car stolen in the East.

A note of possible tragedy was introduced Monday, when Irvin Patrick, game protector here, suggested hunters may have mistaken the parrot for a game bird and shot him down.

But Briggs refuses to give the bird up for lost. He said Tuesday that he intended to go looking for the bird again that evening. On the face of it, there was nothing new about this, since most of the population of New Holland has been seeking the big green, red and yellow parrot since its disappearance Saturday.

But it could be that Briggs has a lead. He refused to elaborate, but hinted, "I just might have an idea where he is. I'm going to go look at." At that point he broke off and said no more.

He promised, however, to keep the Record-Herald informed of further developments in the search.

July 4th Celebration Plans Take Form Here

The Washington C. H. Junior Chamber of Commerce put its house in order for the closing of the fiscal year at Monday night's regular meeting, but much of the discussion centered on plans for the Fourth of July celebration the Jaycees are sponsoring at the public park on Millikan Avenue all day Monday.

The year-ending business was taken care of as routine.

Among other things agreed on was that each of the retiring officers would submit a written report of the activities of his office during the year to the president. This, it was argued, would provide not only a reference for past achievements but also a permanent record for the Jaycee fund.

It was estimated that the circus would net right at $300 and this was handed, figuratively speaking, to Dave Ogan, the chairman of the committee.

In discussing the activities of Scout Troop 316, sponsored by the Jaycees, it was brought out that more boys are needed to bring it up to full strength and that a meeting place in Washington C. H. would be a big advantage. Boys at the Children's Home form the nucleus of the troop. It was suggested that troop 316 would be a good one for boys graduating from the Cub ranks to consider.

The new officers, who are to be installed at a dinner meeting preceding a dance at the Country Club July 9, are Bob Callison, president;

Three Die, Five Hurt In Crash

BERLIN (AP)—A 17-month-old boy died today, a victim of a two-car crash that killed his parents and another person Monday, and injured five other persons, two seriously.

The newest fatality was Eric Bouffard, who was taken to Allen Memorial Hospital with a skull fracture and a slashed throat.

Killed in the collision at the intersection of Ohio 303 and a country road near Lorain were the infant's parents, Adrian Bouffard, a 28-year-old school teacher of Lincoln Park, Mich., and his wife, Zona, and a passenger in their car, Mrs. Rose McCredy, 59, of Oberlin.

President Of Union Meets Negotiators

Plans Started For Banking Furnaces Before Deadline

PITTSBURGH (AP)—CIO United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald, pressing to avert a nationwide steel strike Thursday midnight, resumed negotiations today with the nation's six big steel producers.

At the same time U. S. Steel Corp., the world's largest producer, and Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., the nation's fourth biggest steel maker, said preliminary steps are under way to effect an orderly shutdown of its mills.

A spokesman for Jones & Laughlin also said the company will submit an offer to the union later in the day. He said the offer substantially will be the same as that offered by U. S. Steel earlier. That offer was rejected by the union.

BEFORE ENTERING the meeting with U. S. Steel, McDonald was asked by a newsman if he at any time suggested to industry a plan for a guaranteed unemployment benefit fund.

McDonald replied: "Our contract calls for wages—wages only. I will stand by the contract. I have talked to the steel companies only about a substantial wage increase."

Before meeting with U. S. Steel McDonald met privately with his negotiating team. The meeting lasted only about a half hour and McDonald made no comment.

The big union is pushing for a wage settlement before Thursday midnight and is empowered by its wage policy committee to call a nationwide strike then if its demands for a substantial wage increase are not met.

IN AN ADVERTISEMENT today in the New York Post, U. S. Steel said that its "substantial" offer would give workers average straight-time hourly earnings more than 10 cents higher than those provided by recent increases in the automobile industry.

The advertisement added that the "spectacular" wage increases given company workers during the past 5½ years had not been "even closely approached" by workers in any other major industry. The average hourly scale under the offer would provide earnings 74 cents higher than in January, 1950, the ad said, "more than three times as great as the rise in the cost of living during this period."

Among other things, McDonald says, the steel industry is booming and can well afford a "substantial" hike for his men who now average $2.33 an hour.

Despite unanimous backing Monday from the union's 170-man wage policy committee to strike, McDonald said at a news conference late that he's still optimistic.

Raft Spotted In Search For Flyers

TOKYO (AP)—A tiny life raft, possibly occupied by one of two U. S. Marine fliers missing at sea for the third night, was spotted by an Air Force search plane some 120 miles south of Tokyo tonight about 9:40 p. m. (7:40 a. m. EST).

Ships of three nations hunted the two Marines who vanished off Tokyo Sunday night. An Air Force spokesman said sputtering signals still were being picked up from one of the rafts at 10:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EST).

The search spread over 20,000 miles of the western Pacific in an effort to locate the fog-shrouded men before they died of exposure as they drifted in little rubber rafts.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

One You Want."

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a teen-age girl, a junior in high school, and until last summer I was very much overweight. I was nervous and abnormally shy, especially around boys.

Now, although I have lost 30 pounds, I still experience the same shyness, the same nervousness and the same feeling of discomfort around boys. Recently I turned down an offer to meet a boy who, in my estimation, is one of the finest and most decent boys in the city, merely because I was scared to death.

I am an honor student in high school and most of the boys think of my shyness as conceit. I would be most grateful if you can give me any helpful suggestions.

Also now that I have lost weight, I would like to know if you could advise me as to what styles would suit my particular figure. I am five feet, eight inches tall and my measurements are 35, 26, and 38 inches. I shall be very grateful for any guidance that you may offer.

S.F.

Moving Toward Light
DEAR S. F.: It is good that you are beginning to work at reducing your social handicaps, because only by tackling the problem somehow, can you locate and eliminate the overlapping causes.

Having got rid of excess pounds, you now discover to your dismay that a lovely lithe figure doesn't automatically win friends and put you at ease. But there is progress in this recognition if it jolts you into further effort to help yourself to happiness.

At this writing you are face-to-face with a fact that psychologists and diagnosticians have been emphasizing of recent years—namely that overweight isn't so much a cause of social maladjustment, as it is a symptom of perhaps a by-product of hidden difficulties. These difficulties may be neurotic or physical in nature, and sometimes physical causes of overweight tend to launch a chain reaction of neurotic upsets too.

Neurotic or emotional causes of overweight figures as follows: Ingrained timidity, excessive fear of failure or ridicule, undue self-contempt, feelings of discouragement, etc., may impel a person to shrink from the risks of bidding for friendship and social acceptance. He falls back upon himself, becomes increasingly isolated from others, and attempts to assuage his hunger-for-life by eating excessively—as if food were the only safe consolation or pleasure confidently available to him. Thus he gets fat, which adds to heaviness of spirit and leaves the original problem intact—or worsened, perhaps.

Presbyterians Given Reports

Six From County Back From Meeting

Five women representatives of the Presbyterian Church in Fayette County today are back home from the annual Synodical meetings last week at the College of Wooster, with new ideas and inspiration and enthusiasm which they are planning to pass along to fellow Presbyterians here in the months ahead.

From the First Presbyterian Church went Harold J. Braden, wife of the pastor, Mrs. Charles S. Hire, Mrs. C. L. Musser and Mrs. Ormond Dewey and from the Presbyterian Church in Bloomingburg went Mrs. Lloyd Mohrley.

Rev. Harold J. Braden, pastor of the church here, attended the Presbyterians, which is the annual statewide meeting of the Presbyterian Church, as the commissioner, or delegate, from the Columbus Synod.

Less than a month ago, Rev. Braden had been one of the official delegates to the national Presbyterian meeting in Los Angeles. Sept. W. A. Smith of the city schools, the official lay delegate of the synod, accompanied him to Los Angeles.

Those from here at the Presbyterian and Synodical meetings at the College of Wooster heard many reports as well as inspirational and religious addresses during the four full days of sessions devoted to official church business.

They also had an opportunity to exchange ideas with Presbyterians from churches, large and small, all over Ohio.

The official registration for the Synod and Synodical meetings showed an attendance of 847.

AMONG THE reports was one that showed an increase of 7,032 in enrollment of Sunday Church Schools in Ohio Presbyterian churches.

A recommendation that churches and committees be encouraged to attend the Wooster Leadership Training School, July 11 to 22, was made.

Another recommendation was made that each Presbytery committee on Christian education co-operate with the Synodical committee on the Synod Leadership Education school in 1957.

Federal taxes on cigarettes average about 8 cents per pack. Taxes imposed by states and municipalities vary widely.

Can You Imagine This Amount Of Storage Space

What would be your reaction if you suddenly came upon a city at least 30 times as large as Washington C. H., comprised entirely of warehouses? Or a city approximately as large as all of Union Township in which nothing but warehouses were standing?

According to estimates made from facts submitted regarding our federal government's vast owned and leased storage space, at least the above mentioned amount of land would be necessary to handle such storage, if assembled in one place.

It is now costing the taxpayers of the country more than 3½ billions of dollars each year to store federal property and documents. The Hoover Commission, after an intensive study of this situation estimates that at least 253 million dollars annually could be whittled off this amount without any decrease in services.

Think what that amount would mean as compared to the total real estate and personal tax total value of all of Washington C. H. The saving would approximate nearly 15 times as much each year.

However, the vast saving in federal storage costs is only one in at least 250 places that huge savings could be effected, if Congress and the administration leaders of our country would definitely make a sure-fire drive to this end.

Of course, some toes would be tramped upon and threats of reprisals, political and otherwise, would fill the air. It would take more nerve and courage than any majority of congressmen or leaders of national administrations have shown in the last 25 years. Easy spending of money means votes, they seem to think.

The saving in federal storage is only one of 239 places that vast savings could be effected by congressional action or merely by a departmental ruling.

In addition to savings resulting from more efficiency, the latest commission recommendation says the government might pick up as much as 1¼ billion dollars in extra revenue through disposal of properties that might be declared surplus under efficient management.

Perhaps it is the staggering size of the possible savings which creates the apathy in Washington toward the present crop of recommendations. Some proposals in the first series was carried out, either by the Truman or the Eisenhower administrations. The present series seems to be meeting with resistance, and even criticism, by politicians in both parties.

The difference lies in that the new Hoover Commission was empowered by Congress to study policy changes. The first commission merely sought more efficient ways to carry out policies established by Congress.

It is difficult to see why economy in government should be sacrificed merely because some governmental policies should be altered.

The views of the folks back home some time may be the determining factor in the importance which congressmen attach to the Hoover Commission recommendations.

Hawks Worse Than A-Bombs

NEW YORK (P)—Once upon a time there were two little mice, and one was named Oswald—and he whispered to the other, "Harriet."

When he called her name she heard it like the tinkling summons of a three-syllabled bell. "Harriet," he called, and she ran to the wire restraint of her laboratory cage. Across a small space she could see Oswald, running up and down his wire cage and sticking his eager pink muzzle through at her.

She thought modestly—but still excited—that in all her born days she had never seen a mouse with quite such gay whiskers. Her heart rose and fell as Oswald's whiskers did. She felt she must brush them or die.

All of a sudden Oswald and Harriet were plumped into a darkened case. They felt movement, heard the dull plod of feet in sand—and—

A miracle—light dawned—they saw each other again left alone in a strange house on a strange floor. They scurried to a corner as mice do, and looked around.

Why this was heaven—food scattered around and no traps to worry about. The two little mice ran toward each other.

By Hal Boyle

"Harriet!" cried Oswald, and each syllable was a bell tone. "I'll bet you can't gallop like a dust."

"Oh, yes, I can," she answered, blushing. And with no other word she held out her tiny paw, and he took her paw in his paw, and around and around they pranced like miniature ponies.

They swirled into the living room, and saw four gangling people—a father, mother and two children—sitting wide-eyed and silent on a sofa.

The two mice ran from them with quaking hearts and hid under a chair.

"Are they human?" asked Harriet, "they don't move."

"They can't be human," replied Oswald, "because there are four of them—and not one is complaining."

Actually, the four family figures were clothing store dummies. They and the mice had been put there for a purpose, but neither dummies nor mice knew why.

"Oh, Harriet," sighed her bell-toned lover, "Let us dance like ponies again."

Her small warm paw crept back again into his paw. But just as they were ready to dance again together there was a sud-

Problems Of Standardizing Money

By George Sokolsky

The problem of money and its value has long plagued the human race. There is no universal monetary standard. It used to be, in what appears to us now the very distant past, that gold was acknowledged as the base to which most currencies were related. But the world went off gold and never got right again.

The British were the first among the great marketing nations to open a free market for gold. The operation is still small and is in a few hands led by Samuel Montagu & Co., Ltd., an old and highly respected banking house in London. It is too early to say that the British are ready to restore the Gold Standard, but they are prepared to establish some system of convertibility, that is, for a free and more stabilized conversion of one currency to another.

Most of the continental European countries are opposed to convertibility because they presently manipulate their currencies to give them an advantage in world markets. Their general contention is that if they lose that advantage, they will not be able to compete with American goods which are produced by mass production methods and therefore more cheaply in huge quantities.

Continental European countries are not ready for mass production, because they lack a home market to sustain this method. They cannot dispose of immense quantities of automobiles. Most of those countries have too low a standard of living for vast mass production enterprises. They cannot sell to their own markets. Many of them will never be able to meet American productivity and economically should not be. In fact, the past years of supported prices would indicate that our productive capacity is so great that it is rapidly overrunning our ability to consume. This is particularly true of agricultural commodities and is beginning to be felt in the automobile industry. The limitation upon European production is the consumer's market; the limitations upon American production have been the number of machines used, the access to raw materials and the cost of capital.

As long as each country insists upon making products which they cannot sell by normal trading methods, the manipulation of currency by governments seems to the Europeans to be an economic necessity and they will therefore continue to oppose convertibility which is the first essential step toward economic stabilization. Both Great Britain and the United States favor convertibility in principle.

House Extends Higher Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (P)—The House has approved President Eisenhower's request that Congress extend for another year the "temporary" $6,000,000,000 increase in the national debt limit voted last year.

The House sent to the Senate by a 226-56 vote the measure which would keep the legal debt ceiling at $281,000,000,000 until July 1, 1956.

Obviously the reason why the United States and Soviet Russia are economically so effective is that they have a broad base. Domestically, they have established, each according to its own economic system, a vast area for the consumption of goods and the supply of raw materials without tariffs or other similar impediments. Most European countries are not in a position to do that. Even Great Britain has to import from abroad most of its raw materials and many of the continental European countries are lacking in basic supplies with

12 New Polio Cases Reported

COLUMBUS (P)—Twelve new cases of polio were reported in Ohio the week of June 19-25, the state health department said today.

This brings the year's total to 95. During the same week last year there were six new cases for a total of 107.

List of Antidotes For Many Poisons

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Summer means bugs, and plenty of them, bugs mean insecticides and poisonous powders in just about every home; and these mean potential danger to your children.

When using insecticides don't spray them widely about a room. Instead, direct them toward the spots where they are needed. It's a good idea, too, to keep the children out of a room until you have finished spraying.

On High Shelf

The greatest danger to youngsters, however, are the insecticides which are just left lying about. It's most important, of course, that such poisons be kept on a high shelf or in a locked cabinet out of the reach of inquisitive little hands.

But, no matter how much I caution you, some of your children are going to swallow some of these insecticides or powders accidentally this summer. If your youngster is one of them, you'll want to know what to do.

First, call your doctor. He'll give you the proper advice.

An Antidote

If you can't reach him, you'll have to give your youngster an antidote. If you don't know what he has swallowed, give him milk mixed with the white of an egg, milk and flour, or baking soda and water.

If you can determine what the poison contains, you can usually learn this from the label of the container. The following antidotes should be used for the following poisons:

Arsenic—Give a mixture of two tablespoons of powdered burnt toast, one spoon of milk of magnesia and four spoons of strong tea.

DDT—Give two tablespoons of epsom salt in two glasses of water. Then give lots of strong tea or hot coffee.

Phosphorus—Four ounces of hydrogen peroxide. One tablespoon of sodium bicarb in a quart of warm water. Then give four ounces of mineral oil. Do not give animal or vegetable oil. Keep all oils and fats out of the diet for several days.

Sodium Fluoride—Give two tablespoons of milk of magnesia. Then give him a glass of milk.

Strychnine—Give the same mixture as the one used to combat arsenic.

In each case you must also induce vomiting.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

F. B.: What might be the cause of a severe burning sensation in the throat? I neither smoke nor drink.

Answer: The burning sensation in your throat may be due to inflammation resulting from infection in the throat itself or to a chronic sinus infection. An examination by a throat specialist would determine the exact cause of the difficulty so that proper treatment could be prescribed.

Our word "martyr," one who dies for a cause, formerly meant "witness" and gained its present meaning when many early Christians "testified" to their convictions by dying for them.

First, call your doctor. He'll give you the proper advice.

13 Persons Die Daily In July Traffic Mishaps

Keep Car In Good Condition Advice Of Chief Long

On an average, 13 persons a day lose their lives by accident during the month of July . . . nearly five each day are victims of traffic accidents.

Chief of Police Vaiden Long said that one fourth of the traffic deaths result from accidents in urban areas. "While city casualties have been lower than in 1954, the recent Memorial Day weekend warns us that we cannot expect to hold these gains unless motorists recognize hazards better than they have in the past," he said.

Continuing Chief Long said: "Folks spend weeks planning a vacation trip, arranging for sleeping accommodations, sights seeing trips and their travel route . . . then they completely overlook their car. It should be thoroughly inspected by a competent mechanic, and put in good condition, even when the trip is merely 'gypsying' around Ohio."

"Car trouble is no fun on a vacation. A slight delay tempts the driver to make up for time lost. One-third of the drivers involved in rural traffic accidents were violating a speed law at the time of the accident; one-fifth in urban accidents were 'speeding'."

"Remember that there are many more cars on the road this summer. Miles traveled will be 10 percent higher than a year ago. You may not be able to go as fast or as far in a day as you did last year."

"East of the Mississippi, it is not wise to expect to cover more than 300 miles a day. Each hour spent sightseeing cuts 35 miles from that total. Plan your trip so you can reach the day's destination without exceeding the speed limits."

"Enforcement officers in all sections are campaigning on the theme 'Slow Down and Live'. Great attention is being focused on speed. Watch your speed, or you may be delayed by a visit to a magistrate in a strange community."

"But there's another reason to watch your speed - the damage from a collision increases greatly at high speed . . . at 60 the impact is four times the blow inflicted at 30 . . . two cars colliding at the speed of 60 mph produce the damage of 120 miles hitting a brick wall. 'Slow Down and Live' is a fact as well as a slogan. Fatalities

"Get acquainted with traffic laws in the states that you will visit. Some are using red and white eight-sided STOP signs. Ohioans are more familiar with the yellow and black variety. But whatever the color - STOP . . . Don't just hesitate."

"You may see some triangular signs, broadside up, with the words: 'Yield Right of Way' in black on a yellow background. They mean that the intersecting street has right of way over the one you are on. You are not obliged to stop unless there is a car or pedestrian on that other street. But you must give right of way to all traffic on the cross street."

"Don't try to drive and find your way on a map at the same time as a chaperone tried to do on US Route 6 crossing Rocky River Bridge. Pull out of the traffic stream and stop, so you can give your undivided attention to the map."

Jaw Bone, Tusks Are Uncovered

PALISADES, Idaho (AP) — A jaw bone and a pair of giant tusks were uncovered Monday at the Palisades dam project site.

William Donaldson, Idaho Falls, a worker at the dam, found them. He said the tusks were four inches in diameter at the small end and went up to 12 inches in diameter at a distance three feet from the point. He said he would seek help from Idaho State College in identifying the bones.

The Nation Today

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guessing why the Russians have changed from growl to grin has become a kind of international parlor game which anyone can play, with or without facts. A little wishful thinking helps.

Latest guesser is Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines. At the United Nations' anniversary in San Francisco last week, during a television interview, he said: The Kremlin leaders are having trouble among themselves and want a breather.

They failed in all three. The last great hope they had was to keep West Germany disarmed. It was only after the Allies gave Germany the go-ahead this year—that the Russians changed their attitude. They've been pleasant ever since.

Nothing more could be accomplished by threats or toughness. They couldn't lose by a twist in tactics. Indeed, they might accomplish more with sounds of peace than they ever achieved with belligerency.

The Russians themselves have given a more plausible reason, without saying so, for their sudden air of sweet reasonableness. Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov pointed to it again in San Francisco.

The Russians want the West to disarm.

For years in one way or another, mostly a tough way, they have desperately tried to break up the Western Alliance, prevent West Germany's rearmament and discourage the building of American air bases in friendly countries around Russia.

Molotov talked of Russian willingness to disarm and prohibit the use of atomic weapons. This sounds like a tremendous concession by Russia. The test of its earnestness lies ahead.

The Russians and the West have been dithering for years about disarmament but the Russians haven't yet been willing to agree to the Allies' idea of a disarmament system which would let each side check thoroughly on the other to be sure.

Delta Kappa Gamma Enjoys Annual Picnic Preceding Regular Meeting

The spacious suburban home of Mrs. Thomas Parrett was an ideal setting for the farewell-for-the-summer picnic of the Alpha Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, national honorary education society, on Monday evening. The velvety lawn with its petunias bordered walks was a picturesquely carpeted for the many small tables loaded with delicious food.

Assisting Mrs. Parrett as hostess were Mrs. Gretchen Jefferson, Mrs. Florence Lust, Miss Oapl Davids, and Miss Ruth Steeber. Miss Golda Baughn was the leader in the recitation of the Collective of the silver anniversary of the national founders and the guests lingered in fraternal enjoyment until the stars shown overhead.

Following the banquet Mrs. Parrett invited the guests into the handsome remodeled colonial home with its treasured memories and wealth of valued souvenirs. Miss Gladys Melson, the president, presided at a routine business meeting. First on the agenda it was voted to materially increase the value of the local scholarship which annually is awarded to a deserving Fayette County student. It was decided to promote two money-raising projects and also an auction of vacation souvenirs in September.

Many letters of appreciation were read from snut-ins and others who

June 18 Wedding Is Solemnized In Greenfield

Sprays of white gladioli against a background of jade foliage, satin bows and tall altar candles decorated the chancel of First Methodist Church, in Greenfield, for the wedding of Miss Barbara Jean Johnson and Michael Williams. Rev. Roy C. Vaudegriff read the double ring service at two o'clock Saturday afternoon June 18.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson, Route 3, Greenfield. Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williams, of Buena Vista.

A half hour of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. Mrs. John P. Case, organist, played, "Angels," "Sabarande," and "To a Wild Rose," "Chime Prelude," "Prayer," "Clair de Lune," "Starlight," and the traditional wedding marches.

Mrs. Jack Kellough, vocalist, sang "At Dawn," "Because," and "A Wedding Benediction."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with a basque bodice tapering to a point in the front. The scalloped sweetheart neckline was enhanced by a yoke of illusion and a lace Peter Pan collar. The long close fitting sleeves tapered over the hands and the very full waltz length skirt was scalloped at the hemline.

Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was caught to a bandeau of pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations centered with a purple throated white orchid. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Penwell, during which Mrs. Clara Carr reported on the illness of Mrs. Chester McKinley, and a gift was sent to Mrs. Charles Jones, another member who is ill.

At the close of the meeting a contest was conducted and was won by Miss Mildred Moss.

Later a salad course was served by the hostesses and a social hour was enjoyed.

The July meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Minnie Fackler.

FLOWER PRINTED PURE SILK by Rappi gives a sweet compliment to pretty shoulders with a bow-tied, adjustable drawstring neckline. Appropriately graceful, the skirt falls in full folds. The colors are blue or maize.

Mrs. Perse Harlow, Sr. and son Perse, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Pollis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnott and children, Kirk and Kathy Lou have returned from Marion, Indiana, where they spent the weekend as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Edwards. On Sunday they were guests at the wedding of the Edwards' son Ronald and Miss Carolyn Sue Haskell in the Methodist Church in Sweetser, Indiana, when the Arnott's son, Kirk, was the ring bearer.

The event honored new pledges of the sorority and was preceded with a picnic supper served on the beautiful lawn and a delightful supper hour was enjoyed.

The informal initiation of pledges was conducted by members of membership committee, Mrs. Emerson Marting, chairman, Mrs. William Kearney, and Mrs. Ned Abbott for pledges, Mrs. Robert Callison, Mrs. James Hagler, Mrs. Carl Garrett, Mrs. James Stitt and Mrs. Richard Arnott.

The pledges, dressed as milkmaids, were required to perform in several hilarious stunts.

The short business conducted by Mrs. Ralph Hyer, consisted of the announcement of a dinner meeting at First Presbyterian Church, July 11, when new officers will be installed and pledges will be formally initiated.

The committee of officers which also included the hostess was composed of Mrs. Ralph Hyer, Mrs. James Perrill, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mrs. George A. Robinson Jr., Mrs. Richard Rankin and Mrs. Frank Pope Jr.

Relatives from here, attending the funeral service for Mr. Eugene L. McNeil in Wilmington, Monday, were Mrs. Sarah McNeil, Miss Imogene McNeil, Mrs. Florence Fawcett, Mrs. Ella Free, Mr. Robert Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jenkins, daughter Gloria and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Purtell.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Goodwin returned late Monday evening from Washington D. C. where they spent the past three weeks following their marriage here. While in East they also visited for a week with Mrs. Goodwin's niece, Mrs. W. S. Roan and Mr. Roan at their summer home on Chesapeake Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Teeven were weekend guests of their daughter, Mrs. George Ramsey, Mr. Ramsey and family at their home in Hilliard. They went especially to make acquaintance of new granddaughter, Melanie Ranney, who arrived June 22.

Try serving this simple homemade syrup on French toast. Stir a quarter cup of water and two-thirds cup of firmly packed dark brown sugar together in a saucepan over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Boil for several minutes — or longer if necessary — to bring the syrup to a good pouring consistency.

The bridal motif was carried out for the reception held in Fellowship Hall in the church immediately following the ceremony. The lace covered bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake garnished with greenery. Hostesses were Miss Arlene Malott, Miss Barbara Mann, Miss Carolyn Smith, Miss Meleida Young and Mrs. Robert Wise.

For going away the bride changed to a beige summer suit with a small beige hat and avocado accessories. Placed at the shoulder was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Williams are members of the 1955 graduating class of McClain High School. She is employed at Sears Order Office and he is associated with the Jones Implement Store at Good Hope. They will reside on Route 3, near Greenfield.

Flashes Win, 8-7 From Top Team

Jets Handed Upset
With Late Rally

Coming from behind twice and finishing with a game-winning 4-run rally in the last frame, the Record-Herald Flashes chalked up their second victory of the season in Monday evening's Little League game at Wilson Field.

What's more, the third place Flashes won that second game from the front running Coca-Cola Jets—and, although anything can, and does, happen in this high-gear boys baseball program, the victory of the Flashes over the Jets was a mild upset.

If there was any one thing that was outstanding in this game it was the pitching of Wilt for the Jets and Massie for the Flashes. Wilt fanned 8 of the Flashes and gave up only 4 bases on balls while Massie set down 13 of the Jets on strikes and issued only four walks.

Each team got 8 hits, but with the help of a little loose fielding and the occasional bases on balls they cashed in on them almost for full value.

The one single offensive feature of the game was Campbell's home run with Juillerat aboard for the Jets in the fourth.

THE JETS tallied first with a run in the second and then added three in the top of the fourth to take a 4-0 lead.

After three scoreless frames, the Flashes got to going in their half of the fourth with 2 runs and tied the score at 4-4 with 2 more tallies in the fifth.

The Jets turned on the steam in the sixth and last inning and pulled out to a 3-run lead that looked like it would be enough to keep them in the No. 1 spot.

But, the Flashes bounced right back with a rally of their own that was good for 4 runs and the game.

Despite the victory, the Flashes with 2 wins and 2 losses remain in third place and despite their defeat, the Jets remain on top with 4 wins and 2 losses.

Columbus Jets
Get Win No. 10

By The Associated Press

The Columbus Jets keep steam-rolling along in pursuit of the Toronto Maple Leafs, but the road to the top of the International League is slow and tedious.

The Jets extended their winning streak to 10 games last night by edging the Buffalo Bisons 2-1, to move within 7½ games of idle Toronto.

During the Jets' present string of victories they have been able to gain only 3½ games on the pace-setters, who also have been busily fighting off threats by the Central Royal Royals and Havana Sugar Kings.

Both the Royals and Sugar Kings also won last night to pick up ground on the Maple Leafs. The Royals trounced the Syracuse Chiefs 8-0, and the Sugar Kings easily swept past the Rochester Red Wings 8-1.

JACKSON NOW
Wants Valdes

NEW YORK (AP)—Now I want Valdes (Cuomo, Nino Valdes). That's my last trouble—my last headache," said Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson after he had evened an old score Monday night with Jimmie Slade who ended his hot streak a year ago.

A technical knockout by Valdes last July is the most damaging blot on the Hurricane's record, 22-3 for 26 fights.

Jackson overwhelmed Slade with his non-stop attack. Judge Bert Grant had it 6-4; judge Leo Birnbaum 6-3-1 and referee Barney Felix 5-4-1 all for the Hurricane.

Last Wednesday she had an operation to correct a ruptured spinal disc.

Rankin Leads

COLUMBUS (AP)—Bob Rankin of the Zanesville Country Club enters the final 18-hole qualifying round of the district amateur golf tournament today with a one-stroke lead. Rankin shot a 71 Monday.

"I don't intend to retire until I meet somebody who is better than I am," she said.

Last Wednesday she had an operation to correct a ruptured spinal disc.

Feature Race At Hilliards Is Divided

COLUMBUS (AP)—Linda Abbe-dale, driven by Clark Dishman, and Merritt Win, reined by Jim Mace, won the split feature fifth and eighth races, respectively, at Hilliards Raceway Monday night.

So Big, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrett of Wilmington, won the second start this season in the third race.

Hoover Group Makes Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Hoover Commission recommends changing the law which requires policy-making government officials to divest themselves of corporation stock-holdings.

This was one of a set of recommendations in a report Sunday setting forth ideas for improvements in Defense Department administration and business methods—improvements which the commission said could result in annual savings of as much as $2,000,000,000.

The group headed by ex-President Herbert Hoover also considered some of the department's other problems.

Columbus Grove Fire Claims Two

OTTAWA (AP)—A fire at residence in Columbus Grove in Putnam County Sunday caused the death of two children and sent three others to the hospital.

Authorities said Gloria Jean Amstutz, 11, suffocated when their home stutz, 11, and her brother, Bruce, caught fire. Three other children of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Amstutz, who were working away from home at the time, were taken to Lima Memorial Hospital.

Paul, 10, and Thomas Amstutz, 9, suffered from smoke, but their conditions were not serious. Donald Amstutz, 12, suffered burns and his condition was described as critical.

Probe Planned

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Thrips Threaten Roses

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

RECENTLY in the mail, this department received a small package containing an assortment of rosebuds, all more or less damaged. The sender, a home gardener, wanted to know what was wrong with them. She explained that the foliage of her rose bushes was healthy but she had found the buds ruined.

The damage, we must report, was done by rose thrips. Other readers of this column have also written wanting to know what to do to combat rose thrips. Evidently, in many parts of the country, the thrips are working havoc with roses.

Garden roses are subject to attack by several species of thrips. The thrips enter the developing flower buds and feed on the tender parts causing the petals to become discolored, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Often the flowers fail to open, and if they do, the edges of the petals are curled and blackened, as illustrated.

The thrips can be a long time nuisance for several generations of them develop during the summer. During hot, dry weather the thrips complete a life cycle in less than two weeks.

Adult thrips lay their eggs in the base of the buds while the latter are still quite small. The eggs soon hatch and the young thrips suck the plant's juices, thereby interfering with the blossoms opening normally.

If you find buds infested with thrips cut them off and dispose of them. This will help to reduce the thrip population present in your garden. Do not throw damaged buds on the ground, because the insects will quickly desert such blooms and travel to unopened buds on nearby plants. Spray infected plants with malathion or lindane. At this time of year it is better to spray than to dust.

Bible Give-away Becomes Puzzle

Two Girls and Boy First Recognized

Several children as well as their parents, teachers and area ministers are puzzling the case of the missing Bibles.

Under the coaching of the Rural Bible Crusade, three students in 6th, 7th and 8th grades respectively have "satisfactorily completed the memorization of 500 Bible verses."

According to the news releases received by the Record-Herald they are entitled to a week at the Crusade's summer camp, as well as a free Bible and "ten other awards."

But Mrs. Norma Frock of the Waterloo Road, said her son Brian "didn't even receive a Bible." She received no answer when she wrote to the given Wheaton, Illinois, box number for information.

Rev. Harold J. Braden of the First Presbyterian Church, Washington C. H., said he received several calls from parents and a few teachers in outlying areas, asking for information. He asked other ministers, but found that "they're totally in the dark" also.

The good in the idea of inducing children to read the Bible is undisputed. But Rev. Braden comments that "until such time as they divulge their true motive or objective, I haven't anything constructive to say."

Ruby Mae Ater, 6th grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ater, 1320 Pearl Street, Washington C. H., and an 8th grader, Carol Detty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Detty of Jeffersontown, also "satisfactorily completed" the memorization according to the news release from Wheaton.

The news releases give P. O. Box 6, Springfield, O., as the address of the regional office.

Service Station Here Changes Proprietors

Harold Ross and Junior Satterfield today had taken over the Marathon Service Station at the corner of Court and North streets.

They bought the franchise, lease and stock and equipment from Ernest Stanforth who has operated the station for the last five years.

Ross grew up in Jeffersontown and has been employed in the casting room of the Record-Herald plant for the last three years.

Satterfield comes from Mt. Sterling, where he was associated with his uncle in the automobile business.

With them will be another experienced service station attendant, Leo T. (Dutch) Paeltz.

The new proprietors said they would continue to carry a line of tires, batteries and other accessories. A major part of the service also will be the grease rack.

DT&I Repairing Crossing Here

Work of relaying the DT&I Railroad crossing on West Court Street was started Monday. It will be completed within the next few days.

In the meantime, drivers are cautioned to pass over the intersection slowly to prevent damage to vehicle springs, etc.

Heavier rails are being laid over the crossing and the surface of the street will be made to correspond.

The crossing has been in need of attention for sometime.

Math Class No Help In Figuring

TOLEDO (AP)—Stephen Vass, in math class Monday, couldn't figure how to get his finger from a hole in his desk.

The whole summer seventh grade, and the whole Fulton school put their minds to the task.

They tried oil, soap and grease; nothing gave him release.

Teacher called the police and gave an A to the cop who shipped desk, boy and tears to a sheet metal shop where they freed him with shears.

New Law Aimed At Party Liners

Must Yield Lines in All Emergencies

Effective Thursday a new era in Ohio public safety will be ushered in when party telephone line users who refuse to surrender a line in case of emergency, are subject to fines and jail sentences.

The new law is known as the party line emergency priority law.

Ralph F. Mateer, Warren, president of the Ohio Independent Telephone Association, said of the law:

"We've needed this law for many years. A great majority of subscribers yield their lines at once when someone has to report a fire or summon emergent medical aid. Now the public has a club against the thoughtless few who have cost many lives and millions of dollars in property damage."

The new law, passed recently by the Ohio Legislature, provides fines of $50 to $500, jail sentences of 30 to 90 days or both for those who refuse to surrender telephone lines in time of emergency. It lists similar penalties for persons who fake emergencies to obtain a line.

It was sponsored by Ohio's 160 independent telephone firms.

Mrs. Ellen Seyfang Dies at Home Here

Mrs. Ellen Seyfang, 84, died at 2:20 P. M. Monday at her home, 825 Sycamore Street, after several years of failing health. She had been seriously ill for the last six weeks.

She was a native of Danbury, N. C., but had lived in Fayette County for the last 45 years. Most of her life was spent on the farm before she moved to Washington C. H.

Her husband, Peter Seyfang, died nine years ago.

She is survived by three daughters. Mrs. Laurrette Todd, city, Mrs. Myrtle Koogler of Dayton and Mrs. O. Eliza Blumenhorst of St. Mary's; two sons, Charles and Harry Seyfang of Washington C. H.; eight grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

She was a member of the Church of Christ in Christian Union at Beaver in Ross County.

Funeral services are to be conducted at the Hook & Son Funeral Home Wednesday by Rev. Arthur George, city, and Rev. Frank Miller of Leesburg. Interment is to be in the New Holland Cemetery.

Friends may call at the residence on Sycamore Street until the time of the funeral.

The family requested that no flowers be sent.

The number swells the total of active employees who have been awarded the pin to 338 out of a total of 2,373 DP&L employees.

Certificates will be given to employees who have completed more than 25 years of service. A special recognition will be given to four employees who have spent 50 years with the company. Never before have so many employees reached the half-century mark during any one year. Only six other persons ever reached 50 years of service in the company's history.

The present series of recognition banquets started in 1948. In that year 178 out of a total 2,000 employees had served the company 25 years or more.

Those who will receive special recognition from Washington C. H. this year and the number of years they have served with DP&L are Hershel F. Baker, 324 Gibbs Avenue, gas serviceman, 25 years, and Lawrence Robnett, 431 Rose Avenue, pipeman, 30 years.

The crossing has been in need of attention for sometime.

Towns Exempted

From Sewer Clause

Residents of Jeffersontown and other towns under 2,000 population in Ohio are much relieved over legislative action which exempts towns of 2,000 from mandatory installation of sewage disposal systems which would virtually have bankrupted many towns.

The legislature in its dying hours adopted a measure, with an amendment, which makes it possible for residents of towns under 2,000 to install septic tanks instead of sewer systems and disposal plants.

There were 2,072,333 bathtubs sold in the United States in 1954.
